

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee on Friday gave executives of four steel companies a chance to appear before it and explain why they feel they should not be cited for contempt of Congress.

The committee's Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee voted such a citation last Friday when the steel men refused to honor subpoenas calling on them to produce manufacturing cost data.

But instead of voting on the subcommittee's request for approval of the citation, the parent committee in closed session Friday decided to hear the company executives in public next Wednesday.

The steel executives already had requested such a hearing in a letter to the committee chairman, Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

The companies involved are Bethlehem, Republic, National and Armco.

Their refusal to produce the requested records is based on a claim that if the data became public or otherwise reaches their domestic and foreign competitors, they would be seriously damaged in a business way. They argue additionally that no legitimate legislative purpose would be served by making the records available.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., chairman of the subcommittee, insists, however, that the fears of disclosure are unfounded.

He says the plan is to have the figures submitted directly to the General Accounting Office where they would be analyzed in groups of three and averaged out with the companies identified only by letters. Kefauver claims not even the subcommittee members will know the figures for any individual company.

The protesting companies claim these safeguards are inadequate because cost accountants could break down the data made public and get company figures.

Eight other steel producers, including U.S. Steel, have agreed, under protest, to produce the requested records. But Kefauver has withheld collection of any of the data pending settlement of the dispute with the recalcitrant four.

The subcommittee's efforts to obtain the cost data began back in April shortly after U.S. Steel announced a 36-ton price increase. U.S. Steel's lead was promptly followed by most other producers but some held out and the increase later was rescinded under pressure from President Kennedy.

The subcommittee's announced goal was to determine whether monopoly practices are followed in the steel industry where prices charged by all companies tend to be uniform and U.S. Steel usually sets the pricing pattern.

Disarmament Conference Recessed Until Nov. 12

GENEVA (AP)—The 17-nation disarmament conference adopted a "no progress" report to the U.N. General Assembly today and then recessed until Nov. 12. The United States and the Soviet Union are deadlocked on disarmament and a nuclear test ban.

The two powers vowed to press their clashing proposals when discussion of these issues is taken up by the assembly which convenes Sept. 18.

The chief U.S. delegate, Arthur H. Dean, and the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Vasily V. Kuznetsov, devoted their final speeches before the six-month-old conference to assailing each other's positions.

Dean urged the Soviet Union to reconsider its rejection of compulsory on-site inspections, one major issue which has caused the long deadlock. The United States insists on them to prevent cheating on either a disarmament or a nuclear test ban treaty.

The Soviet response, repeated endlessly, is that such inspections would be used as a cover for spying and jeopardize national security.

"We cannot, dare not, go on for years without demonstrating tangible, specific and meaningful progress," Dean warned.

The United States earlier rushed through a proposal, with Soviet acceptance, to keep the U.S., Soviet and British nuclear subcommittee meeting here during the recess in an effort to work out some compromise solution.

Arthur Hall of India threw his country's support behind a Mexican suggestion that the conference meet in New York during the next two months if necessary. No decision was taken.

New Orleans School Door Crashed By Shots

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Shots crashed through the glass front door of one of the New Orleans Archdiocese's newly desegregated schools about dawn Friday. For the most part, however, the scene was quiet.

Bomb threats, pickets and crowds of jeering and booing white people continued as this Deep South city neared the end of the first week of its biggest school desegregation — a total of about 300 Negroes in 20 public schools and 26 parochial schools.

But the crowds were dwindling in size and energy from Thursday.

Attendance was up at all but two of the desegregated public schools. No figures were available on the parochial schools.

One parochial school closed unexpectedly — Our Lady of Good Harbor at Buras, where five Negroes enrolled on opening day last week and haven't been back since.

The parish priest, the Rev. Christopher Schneider, said simply: "Nobody showed up." He declined further comment.

The shooting occurred at the St. Rosalie Elementary School in the Harvey community across the Mississippi River from New Orleans.

Nobody was reported hurt and the school opened as usual a few hours later with a piece of cardboard over the door.

"We don't know how many shots were fired and we don't know who fired them," said a spokesman for the archdiocese.

The rash of false bomb threats continued, forcing the temporary evacuation of a Negro public school, McDonogh 19, and a Roman Catholic church. In both cases, authorities checked the buildings and okayed them for use.

A crowd of 150 to 200 white persons gathered at the St. Raphael Catholic School, where several white parents withdrew their children when a Negro girl enrolled Thursday.

Negro Judge Nominee Gets Committee Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thurgood Marshall, Negro whom President Kennedy nominated nearly a year ago to be a federal appellate judge, finally won approval Friday of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

But the battle against confirmation of the former chief counsel of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is expected to be carried to the Senate floor when the nomination is brought up there.

The committee vote recommending confirmation was 11 to 4. Those opposed were Democratic Sens. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina and John L. McClellan of Arkansas.

Johnston was asked by newsmen if Southern foes of Marshall would filibuster against confirmation. The Carolina senator replied: "I don't know yet." He said that he and other Southerners had not discussed their plans.

Marshall, 54, Baltimore-born son of a dining car steward and a schoolteacher, became known to the Negro press as "Mr. Civil Rights." He argued civil rights cases before the U.S. Supreme Court at least 30 times and won in all but three instances. His biggest victory was the 1954 school integration decision.

It was on Sept. 23 last year that Kennedy first nominated Marshall to the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which handles cases in Vermont, Connecticut and New York. Congress adjourned for days afterward. In October the President gave Marshall a recess appointment and he has been serving on the court since on a temporary basis.

Kennedy resubmitted the nomination to Congress on Jan. 15 this year but action it had been held in the Judiciary Committee and a subcommittee headed by Johnston.

150,000 Reserves Face Kennedy's Standby Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, faced with what the White House termed a critical international situation, asked Congress on Friday for standby authority to call 150,000 Reservists to active duty.

The President's request is likely to be granted speedily, but there was no indication at the Pentagon that any immediate call-up of Reservists or National Guardsmen is planned.

Congress members of both parties have been growing daily more vocal in demanding that some action be taken to counter the Communist military buildup in Cuba.

Scope Unlimited

The White House did not limit the scope of its request to the Cuban problem, however, but spoke of the "general international situation."

In a letter pending the proposed legislation to Congress, Kennedy said: "In my judgment this renewed authorization is necessary to permit prompt and effective responses, as necessary, to challenges which may be presented in any part of the free world, and I hope that the Congress will give its prompt support for this authorization, as it did so effectively a year ago."

It was just about a year ago that nearly 145,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists were called to active duty in the Berlin crisis, and this problem has been heating up again.

The authority voted a year ago to call up the Reservists expired on July 1.

Most of the men in last year's call up have been returned to civilian life during the past couple of months. Members of the Reserve who were ordered to active duty involuntarily last fall could not be called again in the possible new buildup unless they volunteer.

All Armed Forces

In addition to placing a ceiling of 150,000 men from the Reserves of all the armed forces, Kennedy's proposed new authority would limit the period of service to 12 months or less.

The new authority would run from the time Congress adjourns, now expected to be some time next month, until Feb. 28, 1963, which would be about two months after the next session begins.

During that time the secretary of defense could extend the terms of service of the Reservists for not more than 12 months.

Republican as well as Democratic backing for the President's request was assured when Sen. Everett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, the senior GOP member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, announced he would join with Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga. in sponsoring it in the Senate.

"Certainly we should give the President this authority, if he feels it will be helpful to maintain the security of our country," Saltonstall said.

Russell told reporters his committee will take up the legislation "at the earliest possible date next week and, in my opinion, there is no question Congress will grant the President this authority."

Critical Situations

"The situation in Cuba and Berlin is so critical," Russell said, "that we cannot afford to fail to take steps necessary to maintain and safeguard our national security."

Even before Kennedy announced he was submitting his request to Congress, the Senate House Republican leadership proposed that the chief executive be voted formal advance authority to use the country's armed forces if necessary to meet the Red threat in Cuba.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate GOP leader, said adoption of such a resolution would show "a united front in the face of hostility, danger and challenge."

The Republican House Leader Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, pointed to Soviet shipments of arms and military technicians to Cuba and said the situation there is serious and getting worse.

Catch Would-Be Killers

PARIS (AP)—A Foreign Legion deserter and four accomplices in a commando killer squad that missed assassinating President Charles de Gaulle by inches last month have been caught, the government announced Friday. But six members of the band still are at large.

Interior Minister Roger Frey, announcing the arrests, said the gang received its orders from other plotters outside France. He did not identify the plotters or the country.

Frey said two earlier attempts had been set up to kill the 71-year-old president before the Aug. 22 ambush in suburban Petitclaux.

Check Identities

Police checked the identities of nearly a million persons before making the five arrests. The interior minister named as leader of the gang Alain Bougrenet de la Tocnaye, a former lieutenant in the 1st Foreign Legion Paratroop Regiment which supported the April 1961, generals' putsch in Algeria.

Frey said that if the ambush of the De Gaulle motorcade driving from downtown Paris to Villacoublay airport had succeeded it would have resulted in a "butchery" of all the persons in the president's car. Riding with De Gaulle were his wife and their son-in-law, Col. Alain de Boissieu.

Frey said the intention of the eight gunmen at the scene was to halt De Gaulle's speeding car with a barrage of machine gun fire from a parked light truck. The slugs pierced the body of the car but bounced off puncture-proof tires. The chauffeur sped on to the airport.

If the car had been halted, the intention of the gang was to close in and fire until their ammunition was exhausted. Then grenades and a plastic bomb with a 17-second fuse were to be hurled at the dead.

Three of those still at large were identified as former Foreign Legionnaires of Hungarian nationality.

Frey said the assassins at first intended to kill De Gaulle during a military parade on the Avenue des Champs Elysees on July 14, the French national holiday. This attempt was called off, he said, apparently because of the heavy security precautions.

A second attempt was scheduled on the morning of Aug. 22 when De Gaulle was driving into Paris from Villacoublay airport to attend a Cabinet meeting. This try failed, he said, because some of the gang did not arrive in time at the appointed spot along De Gaulle's route.

Tax Deductible Pension Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, by a 75-4 margin, passed a much-diluted version Friday of the controversial bill which would permit self-employed persons to set up tax-deductible private pension funds.

This legislation has been bouncing around Congress for a dozen years and has passed the House three times. But previously the Senate rejected it even after watering down the provisions to pacify stiff opposition from both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

Voted Against The Bill

On passage only Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Albert Gore, D-Tenn., Pat McNamara, D-Mich., and Wayne Morse, D-Ore., voted against the bill.

Many of the amendments the Senate tied to the House-approved measure are unacceptable to backers of the legislation. They are hoping these will be dropped or toned down in the Senate-House Conference Committee that will work over the bill.

However, there is no assurance President Kennedy will find any version of the legislation acceptable. Some backers claim they have the strength to override any veto, provided Congress can finish the bill far enough ahead of adjournment.

The measure has drawn heavy support from doctors, lawyers and other professional men, along with many independent businessmen. Sponsors said it would help seven million self-employed and 11 million of their employees.

As passed by the Senate, the bill would permit a self-employed person to put up to 10 per cent of his income into the plan up to a maximum of $2,500. But under an amendment by Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., only half of this contribution could be taken as a tax deduction. The House version had the same ceiling but would have permitted 100 per cent deduction.

Long said his and McCarthy's amendment would prevent a presidential veto.

As the bill cleared the Senate it would cut income tax revenues an estimated $35 million a year. These are the three other major amendments adopted by the Senate:

—By McCarthy, to apply to owner-manager pension plans the same limits on deduction included in the bill for the self-employed. This was estimated to recoup $65 million in Treasury revenue.

(Owner-managers are those who own more than 10 per cent of the stock of a corporation. They are mostly small, closely held corporations. The Treasury says these plans hold many tax-evasion possibilities.)

—By Gore, to end the capital gains tax treatment allowed to beneficiaries of corporation pension plans who take lump sum payment when they retire, instead normal income tax rates would apply but averaged over a five-year period.

—By Gore, to place a limit of 10 per cent of an employee's salary, up to $5,000 ceiling, on the company's annual contribution to a pension plan for an executive, with a lifetime $250,000 limit.

McCarthy and Gore said their amendments are aimed at long-standing abuses in the pension field which the Treasury frequently has emphasized.

The two senators said many wealthy persons have set up dummy corporations to get the benefit of pension deductions and thus escape high-bracket rates on much of their income.

Soblen's Condition Remains Unchanged

LONDON (AP) — Doctors concerned about symptoms of heart exhaustion kept watch on the pulse and respiration of the fugitive Soviet spy Robert A. Soblen as he slept on in a drug-induced coma.

Soblen, whose professional name is Dr. Dina Soblen, made her trip to be near Soblen through the crisis he brought on Thursday by swallowing an overdose of barbiturates to avert deportation to the United States for life imprisonment.

Two medical bulletins summarized the condition of the 61-year-old spy. At 10:30 a.m. the hospital announced that Soblen "remains unconscious. His heart is showing signs of exhaustion. His condition gives rise to anxiety."

Six hours later came the announcement that Soblen's condition is unchanged. He is still unconscious.

Mrs. Soblen, whose professional name is Dr. Dina Soblen, made her trip to be near Soblen through the crisis he brought on Thursday by swallowing an overdose of barbiturates to avert deportation to the United States for life imprisonment.

There was no sign Friday he was responding to treatment.

Soblen's wife Dina, like him a New York psychiatrist, flew in from New York and was permitted to spend a few hours in his Hillingdon Hospital bedroom.

Mrs. Soblen, whose professional name is Dr. Dina Soblen, made her trip to be near Soblen through the crisis he brought on Thursday by swallowing an overdose of barbiturates to avert deportation to the United States for life imprisonment.

There was no sign Friday he was responding to treatment.

Soblen's wife Dina, like him a New York psychiatrist, flew in from New York and was permitted to spend a few hours in his Hillingdon Hospital bedroom.

Two medical bulletins summarized the condition of the 61-year-old spy. At 10:30 a.m. the hospital announced that Soblen "remains unconscious. His heart is showing signs of exhaustion. His condition gives rise to anxiety."

Six hours later came the announcement that Soblen's condition is unchanged. He is still unconscious.

Faith to Rebuild

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Haggai: Zechariah 4:6-10; 8:18-22; Ezra 3; 4:24; 5:8-11; 6:14-16.

The zealous start made by the returned exiles to rebuild the temple in Jerusalem soon dwindled to nothing, as the people became preoccupied with providing for their own welfare. Eighteen years later the prophet Haggai rose up and called the people to task for neglect.—Haggai 1:1-11.

Rebuilding the temple physically was not enough, however. Haggai reminded the priests that those bringing a sacrifice to the temple must be clean to keep the sacrifice pure; so, also, those who are rebuilding the temple should be clean morally (sinless).—Haggai 2:10-19.

Telling them that they must look to God's pleasure before their own welfare, Haggai inspired the governor, Zerubbabel, and the high priest, Joshua. They led the people in returning once more to their most important job, that of rebuilding the temple.—Haggai 1:12-15.

Finally, in 515 B. C., in the sixth year of the reign of Darius of Persia, the second (or rebuilt) temple in Jerusalem was completed. With the sacrifice of hundreds of animals, and with great joy, the people celebrated its dedication.—Ezra 6:14-16.

GOLDEN TEXT: Zechariah 8:21.

Scandinavian Mission Interest Grows

NEUENDEITELSAU, Germany — A greatly widened interest in missions has developed in the Scandinavian countries as a result of the current popularity of overseas development aid in those lands, an international Lutheran World Federation gathering was told here.

Although sometimes critical in character, this interest has generally brought a heightened appreciation for missions, it was reported at the enlarged annual meeting of the LWF Commission on World Mission.

Among the mission officials who called attention to the development was Dr. Carl Gustav Diehl of the Church of Sweden Mission, the Rev. Johannes Lund of the Danish Mission Society, and the Rev. Arne P. Pedersen of the Danish Sudan Mission.

Significance also was attached here to the fact that the King of Norway has appointed Bishop Fridtjov Birkløv of Stravanger to the nine-member board of the new Norwegian Development Assistance Institution. This is a state agency headed by former United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie which is expected to channel up to 300 million crowns (about $34 million) of Norwegian foreign aid.

Bishop Birkløv, an LWF Executive Committee member, has been missionary in Madagascar, director of the LWF Department of World Mission, and general secretary of the Norwegian Missionary Society, largest mission agency in his country.

Tormod Vagen, general secretary of the Norwegian Lutheran Mission, second largest in the ment of Bishop Birkløv and said "all members of the Norwegian Missionary Council think he will represent Norwegian Missions in a good way."

In Sweden, Director Diehl reported here, "after the formation of a Central Committee for Aid to Underdeveloped Countries, some officers of that organization traveled to different parts of Africa and Asia and had firsthand contacts with missionary work. This created appreciation among the public for the work of the mission."

"Traditional appeal to the responsibility of Christians to spread the Gospel is kept up," he added, "inspite of the success of more drastic propaganda used by agencies for humanitarian aid."

The Danish mission secretaries said the growth of public interest in missions has widened the circle of their supporters.

Words ABUSED

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N. C. (AP)—The abuse of words has become a major American sin, Methodist Bishop Donald H. Tippett of San Francisco told a writers conference here.

He said that "perhaps the worst offenders" are advertising copy writers. "Their studied use of mendacious words is appalling. But this kind of truth distortion is not confined to Madison Avenue. It has been found in ministers' reports and on occasions has been heard in their sermons."

Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Latin American Secretariat for Academic Services is being established at Catholic University this fall to promote cooperation between Catholic school systems in North and South America.

"Christianity Divided" — A new book analyzing the issues dividing Protestants and Roman Catholics, "Christianity Divided," has been published by Sheed and Ward. It includes sections by leading churchmen of both groups.

Today's Lesson: Faith To Rebuild

By N. SPEER JONES

TODAY'S lesson is devoted entirely to the rebuilding of the temple in Jerusalem. We have very little description of this edifice, compared to the first magnificent temple, built by Solomon.

We do know, however, that despite the years of work and frustration involved in its achievement, it could not compare in splendor to the first temple, a masterpiece of Phoenician artistry. Yet it had a spiritual splendor, one resulting from the chastisement of the exile and eventual devotion with which the temple was rebuilt.

Although we have no Old Testament book recording the history of the Jews in exile (Daniel and Ezekiel being prophetic books rather than histories), we have both history and prophecy during the return and rebuilding period. The histories are those of Ezra and Nehemiah; the prophecies are those of Haggai and Zechariah.

Our lesson includes excerpts from all except Nehemiah.

Of Haggai we know nothing. We know only that God commissioned him, the first of the post-exilic prophets, to rouse the people to complete their labors on the temple.

Zechariah then concentrated on completing the spiritual change in the people which accompanied their building. He was a member of one of the 12 priestly families which returned from Babylon.

The history of the rebuilding, briefly, was this: Cyrus of Persia, who became world ruler in 538 B.C., issued that same year a proclamation encouraging the Jews to return and rebuild the temple. They began with great zeal, commencing services at the restored altar and laying the foundation stones for the new building almost as soon as they arrived.

Then, as happens to all of us all too frequently, the press of daily living began to steal all their time and energy and devotion away from the goal to which they had dedicated themselves.

At the same time, their enemies sought first to help them, then, being refused, sought to discourage them, hiring counselors against them "to frustrate their purpose." (Ezra 4:4-5). These two factors combined effectively to bring work on the temple to a standstill.

There it remained for almost 18 years, from soon after 538 B.C. until the second year in the reign of Darius of Persia (520 B.C.), when Haggai first made his appearance. In good times, his voice would probably have spoken in vain. Records show, however, that the Jews were at that time suffering from a drought; they were sufficiently demoralized to listen to what Haggai had to say. The great message in this part is the importance of our focus on the permanent, important things in life, rather than the everyday transient business.

The chief men to whom Haggai made his appeal were Zerubbabel, the governor of Judah, the man who had led the exiles back originally, and Joshua, the high priest.

Zechariah prophesies that the temple shall be finished under their jurisdiction (4:6-10), and that Jerusalem shall one day become the world's religious center (8:18-22).

Ezra records (5:8-11) a letter from the opponents of the Jews, asking Darius if it were true that they had been given permission by Cyrus to rebuild, as they said. Darius had the record searched out, and corroborated it, adding his own orders that no one should oppose them.

The passage from the sixth chapter of Ezra contains what is apparently a scribal, or copying, error. Artaxerxes did not rule until the following century, after the temple was completed. It was finally finished in the year 515 B. C.

Southern Baptists Are Wrestling With Old Christian Problem

Associated Press Religion Writer

Southern Baptists are wrestling with a problem as old as Christianity.

But it's a sharply current one today to the big, membership-governed communion.

Boiled down to simple terms, it comes to this: How, precisely, and in what way, should Christian beliefs be defined?

In seeking an answer, says the Southern Baptist president, the Rev. Dr. Herschel H. Hobbs of Oklahoma city, Okla., "decisions affecting our convention for a generation may well be made during the next 11 months."

Although the question arose in early Christian history, resulting in the ancient Apostles', Nicene and Athanasian creeds, still affirmed by most churches, Baptists have never approved denominationally binding creeds.

They've prescribed the Bible alone, and in keeping with their emphasis on liberty, insisted on the freedom of the individual to interpret it for himself as he sees fit.

Yet paradoxically, they've ordinarily been among the stoutest defenders of traditionally expressed Christian concepts.

The inherent tension, between devotion both to standard interpretations and individual freedom, arises at times in many churches, and the pendulum can swing one way or the other—toward exacting dogma, or vague variety.

The old creeds have been the main balance wheel, although interpretations of them is sometimes at issue, and has produced, more detailed creeds used by some.

For Southern Baptists, however, with their keen concern both for liberty and doctrine, the avoidance of creeds has left a gap in guidance that has exploded into controversy and on which they're now seeking some directional bearings.

A 24-member committee, headed by Dr. Hobbs, is working on a new statement of faith, as authorized by the denomination's policy-making convention in June. Every Southern Baptist, he says—there are 10 million of them—should "be in prayer without ceasing for this committee."

The problem, smoldering for years and cropping up recurrently in various ways, was brought to a stormy head this summer by a book, "The Message of Genesis," by Dr. Ralph Elliott of Kansas City, Mo., an Old Testament professor.

It had been attacked for maintaining that the truths of certain Old Testament passages were figurative rather than literal.

Amid high emotions, the June convention rejected a move to order the denomination's Sunday School Board to cease to publish and distribute the book. "We do not believe in book burning," one pastor declared.

But the repercussions didn't end there.

Since then, the Sunday School Board has decided to drop the book from its list, anyhow.

The situation thus highlighted the problem of just what yardstick—the theologians, the mass meeting, or some carefully developed written standard—should be used for gauging sound Christian interpretation.

It was in the grips of this problem that drafting the new statement of faith was undertaken. Such a statement was adopted by a 1925 convention, but it apparently offers no answer to the issue at hand.

2 Pike Townships Placed In Monroe School Confines

LEHMAN and Porter Townships in Pike County have been officially assigned to Monroe County according to the Pike County re-districting plan approved by the State Council of Education.

There are a total of 1,176 pupils in Pike County, one junior-senior high school and four elementary schools, considered in the plan.

The school districts of Blooming Grove, Green, Lackawaxen and Palmyra, will remain with Wayne County districts.

Monroe County has been considering a county-wide school district, which would include the more than 8,000 school children in the county. In any plan for re-districting, Lehman and Porter Townships in Pike County must be included in the Monroe County plan, according to the state edict.

The two townships adjoin Monroe County on the eastern border, above Marshalls Creek, and have been a part of the school systems of Monroe County for more than two years.

Skating On Thin Ice

The railroad operating unions are trying to turn back the clock.

They are saying, in effect, that the operating conditions of 30 or 40 or 50 years ago must be considered the operating conditions of today—despite the enormous technological advancements made in railroading in the modern era.

They are also saying, in effect, that all railroad jobs must be maintained even when the need for them has passed and the cost imposed by obsolete work rules has become a major element in bringing much of this vital industry to near-insolvency.

And they are further saying, in effect, that the recommendations made by a distinguished Presidential Commission which studied the problem for more than a year should be disregarded. The Commission proposed not only a modernization of the work rules, but generous benefits of many kinds for displaced and transferred workers. The industry accepted the plan—the unions will have nothing to do with it.

These seem the only conclusions that can be drawn from current union actions. The industry has scheduled sound and reasonable work-rule modernization—so the unions answer with the threat of a nation-wide strike which would do immeasurable damage to the economy, to the national security, to the public interest, and to labor itself.

Meanwhile, some things can be said with certainty. One is that no group, no matter how powerful, can blatantly ignore the national interest and get away with it indefinitely. Another is that a depressed industry cannot long be a source of highly-paid necessary jobs, much less those that progress has made useless. A third is that railroads must continue to serve this country. And fourth, if worst comes to worst, the government would be forced to take them over. No one in his right mind could want that.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Sound Advice For Youth

President Kennedy had some sound counsel this week for boys and girls of high school age who may have had jobs during the Summer recess. He urged them to return to school and complete at least their high school education. The President pointed out that Labor Department figures showed that Summer employment for youth this year was at its highest level since 1947. The temptation thus might be strong for some of these youngsters to remain at work if they had the opportunity.

"For thousands of you," President Kennedy said in his message to the young people, "the decision you make this September about returning to school may mean the difference between possible hardship and unemployment or a fruitful life as a productive member of our society."

Government statistics show that today there are about a million persons 25 years of age and under who are out of school and out of work. It has been estimated that during the current decade, an unprecedented 24 to 26 million young people—the "baby boom" of the years immediately following World War II—will enter the labor market. The President pointed out that unless positive steps are taken to prevent high school "dropouts" 7.5 million boys and girls will fail to complete high school. This would be a "tragic" situation, he said, because "the outlook for these young people is black indeed." His advice that all high school-age youngsters go back to school "with a real desire to learn" should not be lost upon either them or their parents.

Massachusetts Politics

Massachusetts has more candidates for one seat in the United States Senate than any other state. Altogether five men are running for the nomination. The primary takes place on September 18.

The principal contest at this moment is between Ted Kennedy, the youngest brother of the President, and Edward McCormack, Jr., the present Attorney General of Massachusetts.

Both men are young — Ted Kennedy is the younger. Both come of distinguished Democratic families — Ted's brother is President; another brother is the Attorney General of the United States; a brother-in-law is head of the Peace Corps.

McCormack's uncle is Speaker of the House of Representatives and a highly respected Catholic layman. Both candidates have pretty and intelligent wives.

The McCormack argument is that Ted Kennedy has had either legal or public experience; that he is not yet ready to hold a position in the United States Senate; that the only reason that he dares run at all is that he is brother of the President.

The Kennedy argument seems to be that because of his relationship to the President, he can get more for Massachusetts than the Federal Government than McCormack can.

Apart from the two points, neither candidate differs much in principle. Both believe in the New Frontier. Both are supporters of President Kennedy. Both are of liberal persuasion.

It would appear that the Kennedys had put a much more effective organization in the field than McCormack has. On the other hand, there is considerable resistance to Ted Kennedy too many Kennedys in the public eye.

The Kennedys are much like the Adamases, of whom there were also a great many. Reinhold Niebuhr, at whose home in Stockbridge, a McCormack meeting was held, called Kennedy's candidacy fantastic.

The Republican candidate will be George Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge who was our Ambassador at the United Nations and who ran for Vice President on Nixon's ticket. George Lodge has been in the Department of Labor and wrote a remarkable pamphlet on the capitalist system — one of the very few defenses which is well worth reading.

There are two other candidates whom we may omit from this discussion as they are not likely to be nominated. The excitement over the primary fight between Ted Kennedy and Eddie McCormack attracts so much attention that the contest between seems to have been forgotten altogether.

The primary contest will leave wounds no matter whether Kennedy or McCormack is chosen. While the Kennedys from Washington say that they are not supporting their brother, ("He is on his own"), no one in these parts believes them. They assume that Ted would not be a candidate unless Jack approved.

The state of Massachusetts is increasingly Roman Catholic. Not only does it have a large Irish-Catholic population but a constantly growing Italian Roman Catholic population. The Governor of the state is of Italian origin; his predecessor is of Italian origin. When the ethnic content of a state changes, its politics is likely to change. Governor John A. Volpe is a Republican.

It is impossible to foretell the results of the forthcoming primary. There have been all sorts of polls, but confidence in pollsters is going down the drain because too many amateurs have got into the business who cannot put up the capital for a true sample.

A pollster has to be taken more or less at his word, and some of the newer and less expensive firms have no word that can be taken. When a candidate is or has been a member of the Board of Directors of a polling company, that company ought to excuse itself from the transaction on the grounds of a conflict of interest.

That has not been done in some cases. So many polls in this campaign throughout the country have been fixed that a scandal is bound to explode sooner or later. The scandal will be over a conflict of interest.

In Massachusetts, no one takes the polls seriously. Ted Kennedy assumes that he will win; McCormack assumes that he will win. Kennedy's backers say he is way ahead; the McCormack backers are sure that he is in it. It is an amazing campaign and has given courage to the Republicans who now believe that they will have a chance in what looked like a Democratic victory only a few months ago.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Mr. Schnitzer, New Gap Post Office, Nuclear Policy, Doe Licenses, Traffic Flow, Coverage, Highway Billboards

Gist Of Mr. Schnitzer

Editor's Note: In recent weeks, The Daily Record has been the recipient of a number of communications from Henry R. Schnitzer, Bushkill, president of the Anti-Dam Committee. The content of the letters, for the most part, was deemed unsuitable for publication.

However, at the insistence of Mr. Schnitzer, we have attempted to extract those portions of the letters which seem in the public interest and avoid innuendoes and the personal biography of their author.

(The Daily Record welcomes Letters To The Editor, but has followed the policy that they should be constructive criticism or comment, rather than invective.)

Aug. 20

"The letter from Mr. Alvin H. DeWitt, Jr., can best be described as being esoteric. In other words, it reads like an effusion of the super-heated elements which comprise the atmosphere."

"It happens that I pay taxes in Bayonne and Elizabeth, N.J., as well as Bushkill, Pa. Consequently, I may be included among the cognoscit; in other words, I am a wise guy."

"Garbage: In Bayonne this is collected three times a week. I vote there. Every Christmas the men on Garbage Truck 4144 drop a Christmas card in my mail box. It happens I cannot read English. Yet, no one is mad at yours truly except the members of the Bayonne Democratic Club. They have been mad at me for a long time. Shortly I expect them to become madder. Sen. Harrison A. Williams is also annoyed with me. But he is shrewd politician; his letters to me are always signed 'Sincerely yours.'"

"In Elizabeth, Schnitzer Alloy puts out untempered garbage cans twice a week. I believe, I am not sure exactly: I am too busy doing other things than to supervise our two porters. The only person who is mad at me so far as I can tell is the chief garbage collector. We had what is commonly known as an altercation. He lost. Oh, yes! Mayor Berlekamp, a Democrat, is also mad at me. I can't figure out why."

"Special dumping costs in Elizabeth: If Schnitzer Alloy should want to dump a two ton truck load of rubbish on the Elizabeth dump, costs, I believe, are the slight and insignificant sum of one buck. We're cheap skates. That's why the chief garbage collector and the undersigned, I imagine, do not exchange felicitations on Christmas."

"Special dumping costs in Bushkill: for a small bag of garbage, el precio, as they say in Spanish, is two bits. For half a ton, I understand, it is two and a half bucks. (Sorry; one should never use slang). One ton, my informant tells me, is what the boys on the campus used to refer to as a sawbuck. Now a days, it is known as a five spot, J.F.K. currency ..."

"I keep wondering what is in back of the private dump in Bushkill. I imagine a good detective could uncover some bad smelling garbage if he dug deeply enough ..."

Aug. 24

"The recent parade by the Anti-Dam Committee of Bushkill was a pronounced success that Henry R. Schnitzer, president of the Bushkill Division of the Anti-Dam Committee, is planning a garbage protest parade through Bushkill."

"He hopes to make this as great a success as that of his previous record in this direction. Unfortunately, he has not been able to obtain the assistance of people most affected by the lack of a garbage dumping facility in Bushkill. Consequently, he anticipates again having as many friends from out of town take part in the forthcoming affair."

"At the moment he is assured only of visitors from New London, Conn. As soon as he has organized a sufficient force, the parade will be held at the proper time through Bushkill Village."

Aug. 27

"Last week I wrote the Record in answer to Mr. Alvin DeWitt's Jr. epistle on the subject of garbage. For some mysterious reason, the Record did not print my communication. A lot of people in Bushkill have expressed their annoyance about this unfortunate error of omission. They are looking forward to its unveiling with error of anticipation which my public has always evidenced."

"This week I am answering Mr. DeWitt on the subject of ROADS. I do not believe in homeopathic dosage for speeches, sermons, or letters. I have just completed an exploration of the new boulevard leading to Tamiment and Unity House. Pike County should be proud of the accomplishment."

"There is a peculiar thing about this boulevard. It continues right to the points where the respective private properties Unity and Tamiment begin. From those points, the old hard tops that were good enough until the past two years remain exactly as they were in the days of yore."

"I regularly scan the Record to read of current disasters on the remnants of the old hard tops. It is disappointing to report that my blood thirsty instincts have yet to be gratified. Contrarywise, it would be interesting to know how many lives were lost on the old hard top in the 25 years prior to the construction of the boulevard."

"As a tax payer and for the benefit of other taxpayers I would like to have Mr. DeWitt tell his public: A. How much did it cost Pike County to build the boulevard? B. What was it built for?"

"This is a nice, short, brief communication about which my public is fully aware. My public consists of some summer residents who are worrying about the incredible increase in local taxes in recent years. I hope and trust, as stuffed shirts said in their letters years ago, that the Record will find room to squeeze in this communication among Dear Mr. Editor Columns."

Aug. 30

"The Anti-Dam Committee charges that the Stroudsburg Record is unfair to the Anti-Dam Committee."

"In evidence of this are the following: Earlier in its campaign the Anti-Dam Committee submitted a press release, in which it had revealed that there was a whispering campaign in Bushkill against Henry Schnitzer, president of the Anti-Dam Committee."

"The whispering campaign was to the effect that Mr. Schnitzer was a summer resident and had no business interfering in a matter concerning the Bushkill people. An attempt was made to refute this by submitting evidence that Mr. Schnitzer for years has supported Monroe County charities. Photographs of checks substantiation of the claim, accompany the press release. Nothing ever appeared in the Stroudsburg Record about the matter although, Mr. Schnitzer charities have amounted to hundreds of dollars in the 14 years since he has been a summer resident of Bushkill."

"Later important release again were suppressed. While this suppression was going on, drive of the most incredible sort, favorable to the dam, was constantly being presented under big headlines to Record readers, giving them the impression that the dam was as good as passed by Congress."

"Under the date of Aug. 20th, the Anti-Dam Committee attempted to insert an ad in the Stroudsburg Record and attached is the letter on the subject."

Ed. Note: The letter included at this point the verbatim text of the proposed ad, which was deemed as advertising a lottery, publication of which in the Daily Record is illegal under the United States Postal Regulations.)

Question On Doe Licenses

Editor, The Daily Record
Today I made a trip to Stroudsburg to secure doe license. I was told by Mr. Loney that the doe license had all been sold out two weeks ago and he told me he had reserved fifty doe licenses for Claude Heiney and fifty for William Weise, both of Kunkletown.

Mr. Heiney owns no land for hunting and does not get a hunting license himself, yet he could have priority to fifty doe licenses. Last year it was the same story. Why does this situation exist?

I am a property owner and also have land leased amounting to about 400 acres. I was willing to buy the license but could not do so.

My land has always been open to hunting and fishing but if this sort of thing isn't stopped I will be forced to close my land and I know my neighbors feel the same way.

"In response Mr. Charles Edmondson, manager of retail advertising, wrote the Anti-Dam Committee as follows:

"Sorry that we cannot carry, as a paid advertisement in the Daily Record, your submitted copy referring to possible future legislation in Congress in which you offer to bet on the outcome."

"You may, or may not, be aware of the fact that gambling is illegal in the state of Pennsylvania. To publish an advertisement, which is definitely a gambling challenge, comes under post office regulations as un-mailable material. The Daily Record is not jeopardizing its mailing privileges by knowingly accepting a gambling add ..."

"Similarly, the Anti-Dam Committee has found it difficult to obtain publicity on station W.V.P.O. Editor, The Daily Record:

Following is a copy of a letter sent to the Mayor of Delaware Water Gap concerning the proposed post office in that borough:

Arthur Lehr, Esq.,
Borough of Delaware Water Gap
Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Knowing your public spiritedness and interest in the welfare of the residents of Delaware Water Gap, I would like to present a few thoughts on the subject of the proposed new Post Office.

As a property owner in Delaware Water Gap, I am very enthusiastic about the new Post Office and feel it is an essential need for our community.

It is because of this, that I have formally offered part of our property at a third of its assessed price as a possible new location for the new Post Office.

Delaware Water Gap is a grand and famous name. Its significance can be recognized by the directional signs one sees on the highways leading to it from New Jersey and New York. While much has changed since the early days of the Indians—and the prosperous times of the turn of the century, the Gap still has the same view and same grandeur. It is time we rebuild our community to take its proper place in the sun. The place it enjoyed when men like Teddy Roosevelt and Henry Ford came vacationing in this area and hundreds of pieces of luggage were unloaded weekends at the Delaware Water Gap Railway Station.

At present we have:
1. A scenic view second to none
2. Nice Homes and land for development

Comments On Nuclear Policy

Editor, The Daily Record

Recently, Civil Defense-Disaster Control officials in Sussex county refused to speak on a forum-type program with members of the Sussex-Warren Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy, or any other group, stating that they were advised not to do so by state and Federal officials. Now, Thomas S. Dignan, acting director of New Jersey CD-DC, has stated that there is no regulation preventing such participation, and that such a regulation would be "undemocratic and contrary to the Constitutional right of free speech and discussion."

If such a regulation would be contrary to the Constitution, we wonder, is not such a "policy" contrary to the Constitution, also?

We ask this as taxpayers who are being asked to appropriate six billion dollars for fallout shelters, and who have read a great deal of criticism of the fallout shelter program by scientists, military analysts, and other experts. James R. Newman, an editor of Scientific American, for instance, states that the government pamphlet, "Fallout Protection, is 'a contemptible public relations hoax. It is designed to make you think you have a chance when in fact you have none.'"

Former N.J. governor Meyner said, "The proponents of bomb shelters suggest we find peace of mind in bleak holes in the ground, where we would cringe in a state of fear and futility. In any large metropolitan area a nuclear attack would turn these primordial caves into nothing but mass burial vaults."

Senator Stephen M. Young of Ohio has said, "The conditions of modern warfare make shelters of little or no use. Were we to be attacked, hundreds of square miles would be covered with deadly contamination, and lethal effects would last not for hours or weeks, but for months or even years."

When we read reports that "to date the Garden State has established close to 4,000 fallout shelter areas," and that on Oct. 1, CD will begin stocking these areas with a 14-day ration of water, "survival biscuits" and medical supplies at federal government expense—we wonder if the government is not wasting our money, which ought instead to be spent to avert a war which will turn the Garden State into hell. ((The U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency has a budget of only $6 million and the UN desperately needs a loan of $100 million.)

In any case, if CD officials on any level believe fallout shelters should be built, they should be able to make a good case for them on any kind of a program with any other speakers. Mr. Dignan has promised to provide a CD representative for a forum with SANE in October. We certainly hope that everyone who wonders where his six billion dollars is going will come to that forum.

MR. & MRS. STUART HARWOOD

On Rising Taxes

Editor, The Daily Record:

What is going on in Monroe County?

In the last few years the school and county taxes increased so much that in a couple of years from now thousands of us will have to sell their homes or farms at any price.

Are we going to let this happen without a fight? Did we not work hard saved and sacrificed to have a place to call our own?

It is not the townships any more, it is the whole county that has to get together, to get results.

Last year and this year, it was Jackson Township that raised the taxes so much next year it will be some other townships.

When you protest to the county commissioners you are told to see the chief tax assessor, and when you see the chief assessor, you are told to see your school directors, and when you hear the school directors you are told it is the state that tells us to build new schools and how much to increase the salary of the teachers.

If it is the state that gives the orders let the state take over the responsibility.

Let's all get together have a Mass Meeting in the county courthouse and see what can be done to cut this local taxes.

R. SCHNEIDER

Criticizes Coverage

Editor, The Daily Record:

I can not help writing this letter as I have been a reader and subscriber of your paper for a long time and thought a lot of it, but lately your paper sure has slipped.

Saturday's paper said the solution to the cross word puzzle would be in Monday's issue. I looked all through the paper and could neither find the solution nor a cross word puzzle on Monday.

You state the paper is non-partisan. It leans so Democratic that Harry Truman could not edit it more biasedly. It is so biased that you took Winchell's column out.

Other morning papers have most of the night ball game scores in on the following day. You miss most of them and never do give them.

W. C. Sengle

Highway Billboards

Editor, The Daily Record

While the Highway Dept. is cutting and spraying the vegetation on the roadsides (the same vegetation that the citizen may not pick) for purposes of increased visibility, they might also carry flame-throwers to be used on the billboards for like reasons. And, by the way, THEY are STILL up along the bypass.

It would seem that if the beneficent federal government is generous enough to give us $2 million for keeping billboards off the roads, we should at least respect this item if not the law.

On Water Gap Post Office

3. A modern country club
4. A beach on the Delaware River
5. A well-governed town with up-to-date Fire and Police Departments

For the Future:

1. We can work to induce industrial firms into our area.
2. To realize more revenue in order to improve our water supply and facilities without tax burdens.
3. To become increasingly interested in the Delaware River Project and proposed State Park
4. To give Main Street a much needed "new look"
5. To invite capital for realty development
6. To perpetuate Crossade Manor as a historically significant site.

There have been inquiries from industrial concerns to be included in the Borough of Delaware Water Gap. For this alone the new Post Office should be accessible to everyone. With growth, the proper petition can be made for postal delivery to the residents.

The new Post Office can be the spearhead of the new growth we expect in the Delaware Water Gap—and that is why its location is so important.

For the proposed new Post Office, Hickory Valley Farm has the following assets:

1. Ample parking space and facilities
2. Has been nationally advertised for 15 years
3. Commands a splendid view of the Delaware Water Gap
4. Any prospective builder can own this property for one-third of its assessed value
5. A boost to the Motel owners whose income has been reduced

At present we are not much more than a toll bridge stop. With a little co-operation from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, we can rebuild this spot to realize its full potential as the Gateway to the Poconos.

As the late Jerry O'Neill once said: "The Delaware Water Gap is truly a sleeper that will awake with a bang!" Let's start the Bang with the new Post Office.

Cordially yours,
HICKORY VALLEY FARM, INC.
D. B. Shulman, M.D.
President
Director, Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce

P.S. I suggest that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania contribute its share towards Delaware Water Gap both in signs, publicity and roads.

Voids, Flaws

Editor:

The current rash of highway building and resurfacing points to one thing—the November elections. Of course, there are side benefits—the roads become improved, and it provides jobs for a number of people. However, the main hope of the politicians is that the voter will remember, come November.

The purpose of road improvements—to move more vehicles and people safely—should be remembered. Therefore, it seems significant to point up some more or less obvious voids and flaws in the program.

One could mention the elimination of billboards, being a hazard and nuisance, blocking the view as well as distracting the motorist.

There is the matter of the lines—white and yellow, solid and dashed. There appears to be not too much rhyme or reason to them—with dashed lines often on blind curves, and solid lines occasionally on the straightaway.

A more serious situation, perhaps is the visibility and traffic flow at certain intersections. Here the powers-that-be could really show their honest and unpremeditated intent to improve highway safety and increase the flow of traffic. Outstanding examples of potential danger occur at places such as on Route 209 at Marshall's Creek, at Snyder'sville, Slota, and Melihany. Some of the remedies might be the construction of bypasses or of third lanes, obstruction removal, or regrading. Superhighways may be the style for modern traffic movement but many of us will have to live with the old roads for at least awhile yet.

Respectfully,
HORACE G. WELLS

In June $30,952 was paid to the same number of countians on public assistance rolls.

A breakdown of the latest relief expenditure shows that $13,549 was paid out to 483 persons receiving aid to dependent children assistance, $11,147 went to 190 receiving old age assistance, $3678 to 54 receiving blind pensions, $2013 to 42 receiving aid to disabled assistance and $1546 to 36 persons in the county receiving general assistance.

Other Expenditures

Other expenditures in the Monroe County relief program amounted to $222 including $239 for medical assistance for the aged, $441 for aid to disabled public nursing home care, $1546 for other medical care and $4706 for administration.

The department said there were 50 new applications for public assistance received from county residents during the month, made up of 24 applications for aid to dependent children assistance, 14 for general assistance, nine for old age assistance and three for aid to disabled assistance.

Rate Cuts Are Filed

RATE reductions based on a tariff being filed by Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, are expected to go into effect Nov. 1.

The tariff was filed yesterday with the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission for review.

The change in rate will effect the price of each kilowatt-hour used over the 500 level. The price will be 1.5 cents, exclusive of water heating. The former listing that the price be not less than 2 cents has been eliminated.

The special water heating rate has been improved to increase the number of kilowatt-hours included at the 1 cent price for water heaters up to 74 gallons in size. For other capacities between 30 and 49 gallons, the allowance at 1 cent is doubled.

For homes with all-electric heating, the rate is reduced three per cent.

Gas Output Increases

RAE Cornwall, manager of Citizen Gas Co., Stroudsburg, stated that in a report just received tabulations show that the nation's gas utility industry sold 1.9 per cent more gas in May 1962 than in May of 1961.

The American Gas Association, in compiling figures for the industry, said the increase resulted despite warmer weather during May 1962, which cut down the housing demand in some parts of the country.

This was more than offset by the addition of customers, which now total more than 34 million, and the increased use of gas appliances.

Total gas sales in May 1962 were 7.6 billion therms. One therm is equal to 100,000 British thermal units (Btu) and could operate a gas refrigerator for 80 hours.

Cornwall further commented, "The modern design and convenience of today's gas appliances have made the task of home-making a lasting pleasure for the modern woman."

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The yen to travel is an appetite that is only whetted by more travel. I decided, as I hugged the radiator in the chill morning and watched a flock of birds wheeling and practicing their maneuvers for their migration south. No matter how comfortable and contented I may be, whenever anybody or anything is going anywhere, I want to go too.

But the amazing thing about traveling is how little it changes people of their activities. You could, I suspect, achieve the same effect by putting me on a platform and have a moving backdrop of the cities of the world rolling past while I continued doing exactly the same thing, noticing with the same delighted recognition the trivia of daily life which so absorbs me right here.

The great movements of politics and social change never seem as fascinating as the little actions of individual people. In reading and re-reading the letters from my sister in Yugoslavia, the sentences I cherish are like the ones comparing the American housewife in the supermarket with the average Bolgradian.

Or the fact that in their house where all the floors slope to the middle so that all of their furniture seems to be "looming," and the doors swing shut all by themselves. Or that it took Shirley a whole week just to find out where to get what for a reception they held for visiting professors.

One bit of intelligence put things in perspective and made me realize anew that wherever we go we take ourselves with us in a sort of little permanent capsule, that however we may respond to external stimuli on the surface, we stay just the same underneath.

Do you know the first thing that happened to Joe on his new assignment behind the Iron Curtain? He got elected president of the school board! The American school, that is. It was a logical — if incongruous — introduction. Just until Shirley gets involved in Band Parents or Girl Scout cookies. Such activities may baffle the Yugoslavians, but every school mother in Monroe County will recognize just how it happens.

Even Behind Iron Curtain, Similarities Are Obvious To American In Belgrade

Neither the American housewife shopping in the supermarket in hair curlers or the average Yugoslavian on the streets of Belgrade seem to care how they look.

That is one conclusion drawn by an American woman in her first impressions behind the Iron Curtain at one of its most flexible points, Mrs. Joseph C. Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Price, East Stroudsburg, is with her husband and younger daughter in Yugoslavia where he is serving with the United States Information Service.

In a letter home, she writes: "Belgrade, Yugoslavia. The first thing one always notices about a new country is how much the same people are everywhere. The similarities are obvious: the differences need more time and more sophisticated observation to be discovered."

"The people here in Belgrade walk around on two legs, talking, laughing, arguing, look glum or pleased, just as the man on the street does in Italy or America. The people in Belgrade are poorly dressed but they seem much more oblivious to the effect of their appearance than, for instance, an Italian would be dressed so shabbily."

On their feet, most of the men wear sandals made of leather or thongs intricately woven together into stiff high up-turned points at the toe. They wear heavy shirts and vest-like sweaters. They don't seem to mind the heat. Their faces are small, sharp, dark and dry.

"There are lots of uniforms on the streets, most of them G.I.-type soldiers, shuffling along singly or in pairs or in untidy clots marching down the middle of the street. Their uniforms are of poor quality, poor cut, poor fit and are in poor order. They are light grey, faded into all shades, even to a rusty tan. The jackets are cut like a loose shirt and belted by a heavy black leather belt into a kind of sloppy blouse. The cavalry-type recruits wear the baggy Turkish jodpurs with heavy wrinkled leather boots that flare out below the knees and clomp on the streets. For a dictatorship they are the most unmilitary bunch of boys imaginable. They are all over the streets. I judge that they must be recruited mountain boys, because the army attaché says the regular army is splendidly trained."

Cape Back Like Busdrivers
There are also police all over the place, neater and with uniforms of better material and cut but they push their natty-white visored caps back on their heads like busdrivers. I think the average Belgrade Yugoslav just doesn't care how he looks. The French are food-proud; the Italians are appearance-proud; the Americans are progress-proud, but I just don't know yet what the average Belgradian is obsessed with.

Belgrade is not a beautiful city. It is a hodge-podge of architectural styles.

The public buildings down town are big, heavy, and tastelessly decorated with cornices and columns like a third class Vienna. These big piles of grey stucco are interspersed with one-story Turkish houses and stores. The houses are hidden away behind and between the public buildings down town and are often of dark wood, unpainted. The boards are narrow and run vertically. They look like walnut boards. Do you suppose they are? Every here and there a new office building soars into the sky, all plate glass and reinforced concrete.

To Get Out Of Cooking Rut Why Not Experiment With New Products

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist
It isn't easy when you're first married to find out that the partner you've chosen for life has different daily living habits than you. Little irritations can sometimes bubble into the first heated exchange of words.

When an old-time recipe calls for a tablespoon of grated fresh horseradish, it's safe to use two tablespoons of the present-day bottle variety.

I remember how Bill and I suffered with the Battle of the Toothpaste Bulge. He had always squeezed from the bottom of the tube and rolled it neatly as it emptied; I forced the squirt from any place my fingers would hit. The result

Readers Tell How They Solved Their Problems

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
Dear Readers:
Here are some more suggestions that have come from your side of this column. And, from where I sit, "Thanks to all of you" for your letters.

R. R.

Dear R. R.: I read all your suggestions about things to do to better yourself in your job, but I'm not the type to do these things and I'll probably never have anything more than an unimportant routine job.

Quiet Worker

I'm not actually unhappy about this, though, because I'm really a very quiet, shy sort of person. Since I am this way, I'm honestly a lot more content staying in a rut than I am worrying about it and fighting my way up against a lot of competition.

The reason I'm writing you in this vein, though, is not because I think you're really interested in my life when you don't even know me. But I do think you probably have a lot of readers who have a quiet personality like mine and I don't think any of us in this category are going to do much except read suggestions on how to get a better job.

Enrich Lives

There are things that we can do, though, to make our lives more interesting even though our jobs aren't interesting and, in my case, I've found the answer to this is to build up my interests in my leisure to compensate for the prestige and appeal my job lacks.

To do this I work hard at making my leisure pay off at things that give me a little personal identity and importance.

Good At Crafts

For example, I have quite a local reputation for the needlework and watercolors I do and my work in these fields is much in demand for bazaars and fairs. Besides this, I'm an enthusiastic participant in community work and I'm known in my town for that.

As far as I'm concerned, I've found this is the real solution to combat being a "nobody" at my job, so perhaps this will help some of your other readers who have this same kind of situation.

Mrs. E. B.

Dear R. R.: For a year I have wanted to get a job and get started on a lot of new things, but I kept putting everything off because each day I never seemed to thing I had the extra pep to get started on something new.

Finally, as I never got started on anything, I reassured myself that I probably didn't have as much pep as other people, and I got into the habit of believing that that was justifiably holding me back.

Because I was so sure I was right I went to my doctor and told him this — not once but several times. But every time, he insisted there was nothing physically wrong with me to make me feel this way.

Then one day he got so tired hearing about my lack of pep that he got mad and said something that helped me more than anything else.

Just Do It

"You lack pep because you don't have enough to do," he said, putting it on the line. "Stop thinking about yourself and how you feel so much and get upon your feet and get going!"

I did! And I've been a new woman ever since.

O. M.

was eventually that we always had toothpaste bursting from the middle of the tube. We both balmied the other for the messy leak and ended by buying two tubes of different brands so we could both be happy. But eleven years later we're back to one tube; he's given up and squeezes it any old way, too.

It's not difficult to get in a rut, but I think one of the worst is a cooking rut. I don't think anything would be more dreary and uninteresting than cooking the same food over and over in the same way. You know by now I love to try out new recipes, and when I hear of a new product I'm anxious to tell someone about it.

Take turkey, for example. Thanksgiving wouldn't be Thanksgiving without a turkey, but does that have to be the only day of the year we cook it, and do we always have to roast it the same way?

Look in the frozen food section of your grocery store for a boneless turkey roast which weighs from 4 to 6 pounds. It's made with one-half a boneless turkey breast and one boneless thigh. The light and dark meats are arranged parallel, wrapped in the turkey skin, and tied securely. The skin with its natural fat keeps the turkey meat moist and flavorful during cooking, and there are good drippings for gravy. The roast is placed in a transparent bag on which are printed cooking and storing suggestions.

It can be cooked, frozen, or thawed in a covered roasting pan with a little moisture added. The frozen roast will take 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours, while the time is cut to 2 1/4 to 2 3/4 hours if pre-thawed. Roast in a 350 degree oven.

These roasts are wonderful on an indoor or outdoor rotisserie. Place overnight in a marinade or rub with salt, pepper, or poultry seasoning before putting on the spit. If you want to use a barbecue sauce, don't apply it until it's almost time to remove it from the heat so that the outside of the roast doesn't get too brown.

In the picture above the roast is shown sliced. Accompanying the meat are individual servings of cornbread stuffing baked in custard cups:

Corn Bread Stuffing

4 cups broken corn bread
4 cups boiling water
1 onion, grated
1 cup diced celery
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup butter, melted or salt pork fat

Salt and butter to taste.

Combine bread and boiling water and squeeze out fairly dry while still hot. Add remaining ingredients, mix well and pack lightly in greased custard cups or a casserole. (This stuffing can also be used to stuff a duck or a 4 pound chicken.) Bake along with turkey for the last 30 to 40 minutes.

On the plate in the photograph you will notice a sauce poured over the cornbread stuffing; this is creamed peas and mushrooms. Use a box of the frozen peas and mushrooms, cooked, or cook peas separately and add a can of mushrooms or sautéed fresh mushrooms. Heat with white sauce.

White Sauce

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt.

Melt butter or margarine over low heat. Blend in flour and salt. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add cooked peas and mushrooms, heat, and pour over stuffing.

Wesleyan Guild

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church will hold its first Fall meeting on Tuesday night at 8. The future of the guild will be discussed and voted upon.

Filly May Be Horse Of Year

WHILE THE voting in the TRA Poll of racing secretaries effected little change in the rankings of the top contenders for 1962 championship, a study of the point score of the top horses indicates that a precedent could be set in the naming of the American Champion or "horse of the year" when the final vote comes in.

Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' 2-year-old filly, Affectionately, only once defeated in 10 starts this season, has the top point score with 400.

od 85-yard runback of a kick-off by the fleet-footed, shifty running of Bob Pascale which proved the deciding margin of victory.

Pascale also tallied in the first quarter, smashing the Pius X line for four yards and six points.

Dan Frye scored the other TD for the winners, plunging the Cards who this year are entering only their second season of scholastic competition. Last year, the team played only a five-game slate.

Coach Allen Shollenberger Jr. last night announced his probable starting lineup for today's clash:

At the ends it will be Kirby Upright and Mike Campbell; the tackle slots will be filled by Keith Mikels and Neil Fritz; guards will be Jim Post and Robert Myrthel, and Ron Vican will hold down the forte at center.

In Backfield

In the backfield, Stu Kreck will be handling the fullback chores, with Brian Varborough and Jerry Hanna converting at the halfback slots, and Alan Young will start as quarterback.

Laver Continues Net Drive

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Rod Laver, the explosive Australian left-hander, continued his relentless drive toward a coveted grand slam Friday when he ground down Mexican Davis Cupper Antonio Palafox, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 and led the way into the quarter-final round of the National Tennis Championships.

The top-seeded Laver already has won the Australian, French and British titles. The United States crown would make him the only player in history to hold all four — who did it in 1928 — to score a grand slam.

Joining Laver in the quarter-finals were defending champion Roy Emerson, his Aussie Davis Cup teammate, Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., seeded No. 3, and America's top hope, Rafael Osuna of Mexico, seeded No. 4; unknown Andy Lloyd, a 20-year-old collegian from Shreveport, La.; Hamilton Richardson of Dallas, a 29-year-old semi-retired Davis Cupper, and Gordon Forbes of South Africa.

Took Four Sets
Emerson took four sets before he managed to harness Sangster's booming service, but finally won out after 2 1/2 hours 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 9-11, 6-1. McKinley easily eliminated Jan Leschley of Denmark, 6-0, 6-3, 7-5. Osuna crushed Juddi Mukerjee of India, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

Lloyd, a member of the junior Davis Cup squad, turned back Reino Nyyssonen of Finland, 9-7, 6-3, 6-4. Richardson were down 39-year-old Vic Seixas of Villanova, Pa., 12-10, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1, and Forbes outlasted Billy Knight of England, 4-6, 5-7, 6-4, 11-9, 6-4.

The final match Friday between eighth-seeded Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., and Ron Holmberg of West Point, N.Y., was called because of darkness. Froehling was in front, two sets to one.

So here is how they line up for the quarter-finals:
Laver vs Froehling-Holmberg winner.
Emerson vs Lloyd.
Osuna vs Forbes.
McKinley vs Richardson.

In the women's division, Vicky Palmer of Phoenix, Ariz., upset conqueror Thursday of Wimbledon champion Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman, established herself as a distinct title threat by easily brushing aside Pauline Roberts of England 6-1, 6-2.

Other winners included the Wimbledon runnerup, fourth-seeded Vera Sukova of Czechoslovakia; Gwyneth Thomas of Shakers Heights, Ohio, and Mrs. Sandra Reynolds Price of South Africa.

The 34-year-old Mrs. Sukova, still limping on the leg she injured in a fall down some hotel stairs just before the Wimbledon final, was fortunate in getting past the 19-year-old, hard-hitting Carol Hanks of St. Louis 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. Miss Thomas won over Margaret Dittmeyer of Germany 6-1, 6-3. Mrs. Price, unleashing a devastating forehand, turned back cute, 16-year-old Jane Albert of Pebble Beach, Calif., the national girls champion. The score was 6-4, 8-6.

for three yards in the second period and giving the Warriors a 12-0 halftime lead.

Royals Rally

But the Royals of Pius X came charging back in the third period on a nifty 15-yard run by Dick Fusakio. The Royals gamely fought back following the stunning all-the-way runback by Pascale of the ensuing kickoff. But this simply proved too much for the locals.

Pius X tried to overcome Bristol's hard - charging ground game with a total of 15 aeriels, but only four were completed. One of these came via conversion when Dean Dapkewicz threw successfully to halfback John Raccato in the final stanza.

Bristol played it contentedly throughout the game with its sturdy running as the Warriors pumped out a total of 129 yards rushing. They completed three of only five passes, good for 40 yards.

The Warriors' defense proved a mite stubborn for the Royals, also, as Pius X netted only 76 yards on the ground. Their four pass completions were good for a net total of 30 yards.

Both teams intercepted once. It was a blocked punt by the Royals' Tom Manaseri which Pius X grabbed on the Bristol 39-yard line to set up the Royals' second TD. It took only four plays from that point to set up the score, with Steve Zegalia plunging over from the one.

Blocking Tip By Daugherty

By Hugh Duffy Daugherty

Michigan State Coach

Written for AP Newsfeatures
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—One of the most important things a youngster interested in becoming a good football player can do is pay rigid attention to details in blocking.

We all know that in order to have a good offense, a team must have good blockers, and good blocking comes from young who are interested in mastering the fine details of good blocking techniques.

Since we teach what is called 'step blocking' at Michigan State, my staff and I start with the original premise that you must always step with the near foot directly into the middle of the defensive player you are attempting to block.

Then you hit with the shoulder and use the upper part of the arm as part of the blocking surface. The remaining part of the arm is held in close proximity to the body. Upon the shock of the shoulder hitting, we expect the head to go up to form a hinge for the actual blocking area.

Rebuild Job For Eiler

COACH John Eiler's East Stroudsburg State College soccer team faces a tough job this year in duplicating its 1961 performance when they won nine of 11 contests and won the consolation round in the NALA tournament with a 2-1 win over Tabor College of Kansas.

Not only has Eilerlost the services through graduation of All-America Left Halfback Harry Shirk, but two other instrumental players have returned to the campus this Fall with physical disabilities.

John Hamilton, regular goalie, turned up with a broken arm and is an unknown quantity at the moment whether he will be able to play at all this season. The same holds true for Paul Grube, center forward, who had a disk removed last Spring.

Likely starter at the goalie post in place of the three-year veteran Hamilton is a sophomore, John Petronius. The other two spots are up for grabs at the moment.

On Brighter Side

On the brighter side of the picture, however, Eiler has 10 lettermen returning to the squad this year, six of whom were in last year's starting alignment. Counted among the losses also are 10 lettermen, four of whom were starters.

Selected for the NALA Tournament last year, the ESSC team was beaten in the first round by Howard University, 4-3 before winning the consolation round.

Asked whether he was hopeful of improving upon last year's record, Eiler wryly commented: "You don't get invited to a national tournament every year."

This year's schedule is:

Sept. 29—Montclair, away; Oct. 3 — Millersville, home; Oct. 6 — Brockport, away; Oct. 10 — Fairleigh Dickinson, away; Oct. 13 — Trenton, home; Oct. 17 — New Paltz, away; Oct. 20 — Elizabethtown, away; Oct. 27 — Lock Haven, home; Oct. 31 — West Chester, home; Nov. 3 — Newark College of Engineering, home; Nov. 7 — Wilkes, home.

ESSC Girls Hockey Team Open Sept. 29

THE East Stroudsburg State College field hockey team, led for the second year by Coach Miss Janet Bolen, starts practice next week in preparation for the Sept. 29 home opener against Elizabethtown, one of three teams to beat the ESSC girls' eleven last season.

Hoping to improve over last year's 2-3-2 record, the ESSC squad has one more contest added to its schedule this year against Hunter College. Otherwise the team will play the same schedule as in '61.

In addition to Elizabethtown, which blanked the local team, 1-0, in last season's opener, West Chester and Ursinus also were winners over ESSC. Falling victims to the East Stroudsburg squad were Beaver College and Lock Haven. They tied Temple and Gettysburg.

Five of last year's 12 letter winners return to the lineup this season. They are Andrea Ferris, Sandra Heffentrager, Andrea Hadley, Glenna Simons, Patricia Singler and Brenda Sudell. At least five others who played last year also will be returning and are likely starters for this campaign, according to Miss Bolen.

50-Plus Candidates
Although practice does not officially start until next Monday, Miss Bolen noted that 13 girls on the ESSC team have been playing hockey every day at the Mt. Pocono Hockey Camp for the last week.

"We expect more than 50 candidates this year," the coach declared, noting that "the freshmen seem very enthusiastic about the program."

In addition to Elizabethtown, this year's schedule is:
Oct. 9 — Beaver College, home; Oct. 13 — Hunter College, away; Oct. 20 — Temple, away; Oct. 23 — Lock Haven, away; Oct. 26 — West Chester, home; Oct. 31 — Gettysburg, away; Nov. 8 — Ursinus, home.

TAMIMENT — Teams from Maryland and Virginia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, Delaware and New York will compete in the fourth annual Danny Kaye Invitation Golf Tournament at Tamiment, Sept. 25, 26 and 27.

Mountain View Golf Club of West Trenton, N.J., winner of the title last year, and Beaver Creek Country Club of Hagerstown, Md., runner-up for the 1961 title, are among the 50 clubs that have entered teams for this year's event.

Catches Fish Barehandedly

DEAL, England (AP) — An 11-year-old girl caught a fish with her bare hands Friday while 18 fishermen watched in envious amazement.

Anne Pointing went wading near where the anglers were casting, saw a fish, stooped down, picked it up and lugged it ashore. It was a cod weighing 11 pounds, 5 ounces.

P.S. — The fishermen caught nothing.

Forster Faces 'Ifs' At Bangor

BANGOR — Graduation took a heavy toll on the Bangor Slaters backfield as only Quarterback Terry Wildrick returns from the 1961 starting alignment this year.

Coach Dick Forster, a former East Stroudsburg High Coach, thus must rely on three inexperienced backs in the absence of Leo Reimer, Ron Bet and Dan Caracio.

However, Forster does have a pretty solid front wall to bank on, and there is plenty of experience in that department. The only key losses in the line were Tackles

Golf World Series On Tap Today

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, the young U.S. Open champion, has no intention of taking a back seat to either Arnold Palmer or Gary Player when the three champions tee off in the World Series of Golf Saturday.

The 22-year-old former National Amateur champion warmed up for the 36-hole playoff, which has a top prize of $50,000, by firing a 4-under-par 66 over Firestone Country Club's 7,165-yard course despite two bogeys in the first three holes in Friday's final practice round.

The talented trio, joking their way around Thursday's practice round in which Palmer matched par 70 while Player had a 74 and Nicklaus a 76, played more seriously Friday.

Player, collecting four birdies in Friday's practice round, also came in with a 34-32-66, while Palmer had a 36-32-68. The course, charged up by heavy rains early in the week, was plush and is expected to remain so for the NBC-TV telecast Saturday and Sunday.

LIFE'S LABORATORY

Have you ever thought of your life as a laboratory? There are no test tubes and no scientific textbooks to aid us in our study, but we've been given other aids more important still. We call them God's formulas for living.

ARE WE AFRAID? Then we may test the Christ-given formula, "Be not afraid, only believe."

ARE WE LONELY? Then we reach for the promise of the Lord, "And lo, I am with you alway..."

DO WE DOUBT THAT GOD CARES? Then we can analyze for ourselves the message of the Christ, "God so loved the world that He gave His Son..."

These are only a few of the formulas for our lives. To test them we must first know them. The Church is ready to teach. We shall need direction also. The Church offers us the help of consecrated pastors and leaders.

Let's go to Church and learn the transforming power of God's formulas in the laboratories of our lives.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dear Abby

Get Wise, Son!

DEAR ABBY: I go with a girl (we are not officially engaged) but I am very obligated to her, if you know what I mean. Whenever there is an office party where I work she wants me to take her. There are some cute girls working here and I would rather not bring a "date" as it cramps my style. I'm sure I don't have to draw you any pictures, Abby. How can I get out to taking my girl? She always knows about the office parties because she's friendly with a girl who works here.

STYLE CRAMPED

DEAR STYLE: Taking your "girl" to a party when you'd prefer to be uncumbered is like going hunting with the game warden. Extricate yourself from your "girl" by becoming less "obligated" (and YOU know what I mean) and enjoy your freedom.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of people who have the nerve to ask a woman what her plans are even before her husband is put away? My husband passed away suddenly and several people called on me. One asked, "What are your plans for the future?" Do you expect to move away or will you stay here with all these memories?"

—by J. D. Shafer

Mirror of Time

10 Years Ago

Rev. Hubert D. Newton resigned as pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Mountain in Delaware Water Gap. He had accepted a call in the state of Washington and said he would leave Oct. 1.

The freshman class at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College began arriving at the school. Classes were scheduled to start the next day.

Registration in the county reached a new high. Total registration was 17,615. The number included all political parties.

20 Years Ago

More than $40,000 in war bonds were sold at a bond rally at Camp Tamm.

The Rev. John A. Bellingham was installed as pastor of The First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg.

Many Monroe County servicemen stationed in Texas wrote home telling of the flash floods in various areas of that state.

More Than 20

More than 900 students were enrolled in the Stroudsburg High School for the school year of 1961-62.

Helicopters Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Textron's Bell Helicopter Co. reported the company and its two manufacturing licensees sold and delivered $9.6 million worth of commercial helicopters and spare parts in the first half of this year, a 30 per cent increase over the level of the 1961 first half. Bell Helicopter's main factories are at Fort Worth, Tex.

Bolivian To Visit

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—President Victor Paz Estenssoro has decided to go ahead with his planned trip to the United States, Venezuela and Japan despite congressional objections that his presence was required at home to deal with economic problems. The dates will be announced later.
